I became aware of influencer advertising. I then googled because I would very much like to invest in crypto and became aware of the report by plus minus. It's about how investors are tricked by social media. C.Nickel's name is often mentioned, he is the head of beinfinity (in the report he is also the head of TPR). There are no returns of 1000%!!! The renowned professor from the University of Frankfurt explains this in detail in the report. He also recreates the courses that appear to be running perfectly. Just make 50 different investments and one of them will do well and that curve will be shown to the client, the bad ones obviously not. This is similar to a scam with the course screenshots in the Insta Stories.

I finally confronted one of the advertising influencers with the negative facts and was blocked. That shows that this company is very questionable.

No "company" but another 0815...

Not a "company" but another 0815 network marketing company that wants to sell you forex and crypto as the next "big thing" and whose members or employees consist of former fitness trainers and other influencers who are heavily influenced by any promises and try new ones without any plan recruit members. Of course they earn money with it, in great network marketing. However, no one seems to be interested in the fact that their CEO has already been involved in several companies with the same business idea. But everyone who registers there and wants to build their own "team" should know one thing. If the system collapses, the CEO is already in the next company, only all the lemmings below him have lost their home and farm. At least that's how it was as a customer of the last "company".

Hoped for more - in the end like any other company

I have several experience videos! looked at and unfortunately let me lubricate too much honey around my mouth. Also from the person I'm recruited to, who I've been following for 1 year as I've literally been blown on my face countless times with different companies. It's very heavy on MLM, you're supposed to recruit more people as soon as possible, knowing 0 of trading yourself.

So where do you stand out? The company or your upline aims for you to recruit many people instead of having a clue about the subject (as it was unfortunately also called) The lawyer's letter is the sticking point where most people throw all their worries overboard because it is written in German. After my purchase, I read through the experiences here and noticed that the lawyer's letter comes from Honk Kong.

Paid for 6 months, I'll take the videos with me despite everything, I won't recruit anyone! Since I have decided to trade and am not dependent on anyone in this respect - but Infinity does not seem to be a priority

GF already seen negatively in ARD documentary

Influencers like Caro Einhoff advertise that they want to tell you about a crypto zoom call.

A short research shows: dubious managing director Chriz Nickel already negative in the headlines - documentary: advertising in social media - just look at how young investors are tricked in the ARD media library.

Based in Hong Kong, he lives in Dubai.

In my opinion, the trick with the well-running courses in the screenshots is this: dozens of strategies are created and the one that runs best is promoted. Of course, company. Simply learned text modules are conveyed. That's not expert knowledge for me.

Among the positive Trust Pilot ratings, I discovered cooperation partners and employees from be Infinity (including Livia Georgi and Florian Wohl mentioned), so the rating is distorted Dubious, pyramid system, be careful you lose in the end!

I was also messaged by these unprofessional people! The first contact was as follows:

"Hello 😊

I started a project at the end of January that shows you how you can make more out of little money, i.e. increase your money. Would you be open to listening to the project /to watch? When do you have time? Tomorrow? Or the day after tomorrow?"

That was the cover letter of the first contact 😂! After I made it clear to the young lady that she should work on her seriousness, the following came up:

"I help people build an income online and profit through marketing, trading & crypto. We are in a market with 81 of the 100 largest companies worldwide are invested! We have academies from beginner to professional in the areas of crypto, trading, mindset, health, taxes as well as coin tips, private sales, portfolio composition and much more. Legally checked in Germany!

Time expenditure is only a few minutes a day and you will be taken by the hand 100% 😊

So I'll tell you one finger away from the association, Hong Kong headquarters for the German judiciary not tangible!!!

Pyramid scheme with token product

Infinity is a pyramid scheme with an alibi product.

The product itself is worthless and not promising.

The "profit" comes from reselling the product. A classic Ponzi scheme.

"Training" and "courses" are offered on highly volatile objects such as forex trading and cryptocurrencies, which are carried out by alleged experts. In addition, grandiose promises of ridiculously high returns are made. The work of Infinity's networkers consists mainly of Instagram and flaunting wealth. Generic pictures at vacation spots and with rental cars are produced, but the troupe around Chris Nickel cannot offer any added value.

Unfortunately, a quick check of the positive reviews here confirms my impression. Most of the positive reviews are from participating Infinity scammers (as can easily be verified with a bit of google) and not from satisfied customers of this "provider".

I can only expressly warn against Infinity and advise people to take a close look at Chris Nickel before making a decision. A majority of the followers were already active in other pyramid schemes which have since imploded. The same fate will befall infinity before a new scheme is built. Unfortunately, legally this is a gray area, but morally it is absolutely dark black.

Infinity is about that

Infinity is about finding someone dumber than you and paying them $100 a month. As a thank you, you can take a look at so-called mindset calls, where you will be explained exactly how to do it.

The extra icing on the cake are the monthly exclusive private sales [any idiot can create a coin these days] you can then be the first to pay into these projects :/. On top of that, you can still invest your money in other dubious projects with < huge potential :) which will no longer exist the day after tomorrow because they have long been dedumped. The whole thing nicely packaged as training for leverage trading, crypto free and rich the day after tomorrow with the right mindset. 🙄

The bad thing is that some fall for such scams and pay $100 a month to be exploited even more.

Great wealth is also promised to you if you do everything well that is explained to you. So that you have made it in 2 years and are free and independent. That Mr. Nickel, the founder of the company, then has a new company, like countless before, that is not discussed. He himself lives in Dubai, the company is registered in Hong Kong, a letter from a lawyer should round it all off, that everything is legal ! The whole thing is not serious, highly speculative and to be considered with great risk.

Hands off!!

I've been a customer of Infinity for 3 weeks now and can report the following:

The entry-level courses for all aspects of the forex market are presented well in terms of content and appearance.

Trades2Go signals are also good, they are analyzed by professionals and then passed on as a trade idea.

Then there are signals directly from the EA in a Telegram group. These are absolutely useless. This makes more minuses than pluses.

Crypto is also supposed to do very well, I didn't take it with me, so I don't rate it.

clumsily that I wouldn't get the money back because I had already consumed content, even though there is a legal return period of 14 days. I even offered support that I would "overpay" for the first month and simply get a refund for the other two. They didn't even get this one.

How am I supposed to be able to look at the products at all if I don't buy them? Nothing is shown beforehand except for a Powerpoint presentation where the tools are not even rudimentarily presented.

I find it all very non-transparent and just cheeky, if I had known beforehand what the support or company policy is like, I would never have put a cent into it.

I'd be happy to talk to you to clear up all these grievances.

reputable sites. Without any subscription or costs. This is simply based on the ignorance of the customers!

Unfortunately, potential new customers are not informed about the taxes that will be incurred, only large profits are promised.

I wonder how many of the people who rate this positively have any idea how high the demand from the tax office will be next year.

It feels like a recipe subscription where you don't yet know what you're going to do with the ingredients.

If you really want to do something with crypto: find out about it yourself! There are thousands of videos on YouTube alone where you can easily learn how to do this. Free!

You can save the money for membership and invest in sensible coins. You also need this coal at Infinity.

Let's calculate how much money the average made there, AFTER deducting the membership and the resulting profit tax. And without having to sell the course as well.

If things were to go so well, none of the people involved would still be working and would put themselves through the stress of having to deal with such reviews, for example.

You have to decide for yourself how good the friend who invites you is. Maybe ask yourself how much specialist knowledge he/she has in order to be able to judge whether this is really good or whether you are killing yourself with it. Infinity will not help you then, because they say themselves on their website:

"...We therefore assume no responsibility for whether financial risks can arise for our customers in connection with the use of our respective service."

Take care of yourself and your money!
