<sup>3</sup> For each country that is a member of the CARICOM, the individual country's passports are labeled "Caribbean Community (CARICOM)" at the front of the passport. A passport with this inscription (that is, 'a CARICOM passport') is not a separate passport or document. In addition, it does not give an individual the right to live or work in any CARICOM nation. If a citizen of a CARICOM member state wants to work in another CARICOM state, they will have to apply for a work permit there.
